Ethan,

I hope everything is going ok or as best as can be exspected for now. Believe me we sure do miss you. People are calling about you & how you are doing but all we can say is we don't know but hope you are doing ok. I know it's tuff but I know you are man enough to handle it, we are very proud of you.

We went to the clinic today for our psycials & five shots. Everything is ok with us. Mom had a spot removed on her back & they sent it out to be tested to be sure it isn't cancer, They don't think it is but we want to be sure.

One of the tires on the truck lost air on the way to the clinic so we decided to replace the tires with all terraine tires. I changed the oil yesterday so I think we are set for traveling for now. We are still waiting for the packet of info from the army, it should be here soon. I'll close for now so Mom can have a chance to write. Hi Baby I sure miss! Not cleaning up after you don't miss LoL! Hope your ok. I worry about you and pray every night that your ok and surviving the basic. I know you will!
